

Midterm Proposal

My website is going to be a personal website. This website is going to include my portfolio, introduction, contact information, and also an inspiration page. My goal is for people to know more about me in the creative field and to share things that make me feel pleasing and inspiring. The website will be in minimalist style and convey an organic feeling. I want to make it comfortable and aesthetically pleasing for people to use and view. And I will stay with neutral colors in general. The homepage will be the introduction page that briefly introduces what I do. The "About" page will contain my image, profile, and past experiences. The "portfolio" page will showcase my works in different fields through categorized project pages. The "inspirations" page will be in a blog format for me to post and share things or works that currently inspire me (can be small goods, artwork, clothing, music, accessories, etc). I want to use modal overlay for those posts. And the "contact" page will include my contact information, social media, and a subscription form.
